

Why Not Quarantine For "Flu" In Rockcastle

We Call On the Public To Effect a Voluntary
Quarantine Themselves—Post Influenza Card

SAVING OF ONE LIFE WORTH TROUBLE

Only Bread-Winners Should Be Permitted To Leave Home; Others Should Be Isolated.

Quarantine has been ordered through the United States Public Health Service in many places throughout the country, and it is hoped Rockcastle will not wait but act at once to help curb spreading of the disease. Let every citizen effect a quarantine against influenza and that at once, right now. The loss of a single life is more than worth the trouble. Immediate action is what is needed and not a consideration. If you only have a very light case it may infect others and be the cause of a death. The public should do their part and not wait to be forced to do so. Don't be smart or ignorant in so serious a matter. Do not be afraid of the disease but do everything you can to avoid contracting the disease, thus prevent its spreading. If you become infected make it a special duty not to do anything that will likely spread the disease; always remember the death that may result from your direct neglect, and sometimes by actual ignorance of what you are doing. Let us be plain spoken and careful about the matter. Read careful a circular that has been distributed through the post office, issued by Rupert Blue, Surgeon General.

In Louisville bread-winners in the houses placarded for influenza are permitted to leave the house, on conditions that he has not come in contact with the patient. The exact rules of quarantine given each placarded house follow: "All cases must be rigidly isolated for a period of ten days from the onset of the disease, or until such time as the patient has entirely recovered from any complication of the disease."

Family Must Be Isolated.

"All members of a family in which there is a known or suspected case of influenza shall be isolated until the recovery of of said case, provided that bread-winners and wage earners may continue at their vocations as long as they do not come in contact with the patient until such patient is officially discharged by the health department."

The rules that have been given in Louisville concerning the placarding of houses and apartments follow:

"In case of a private residence influenza placard is to be placed in a prominent place at the front of the house."

"In case of apartment houses, placard the apartment only."

"In case of rooming houses, where the case is separated from other roomers, placard the door of the room only."

"In case of hotels, where the case is separated from other roomers, placard door of the room only."

leading part in the campaign for volunteers to prepare the quarters for soldiers. "If it is not your son who must be housed at Camp Knox this winter," the call reads, "it is the boy of some other mother—all of them training to protect our liberty in the great fight for freedom. Provided the men do not volunteer for this well paid and patriotic work, it is the duty of every loyal Kentucky woman to report them to the nearest United States Employment Service just as they would a Hun spy or an army slacker."

It is to the women of the State to show the men that it is their duty to volunteer for work at Camp Knox and to take their places during their absence.

All of the organizations interested in the construction of Camp Knox have agreed upon C. C. Quinlan as director of emergency employment and the details of organizing the State and procuring workmen are in his hands.

Letter From Clarence Rickels

Somewhere in France.

Dear mother and all:

I guess you think I have forgotten you entirely but I have not. I have been in the hospital two months and am getting along fine, only I can't use my hand. I expect to be out in a few weeks. I was only slightly wounded so don't worry about me. I have not got any mail from you for quite a while. I guess I will get a bunch of them in a few days. I lost most of my letters upon the front, but I hang on to a couple of yours. I think we will all be at home this time next year. How is Anna and her husband getting along? Fine I hope. Say mother what is the matter with Clyde? He never writes to me. I wrote him a letter two months ago and never got any answer. Tell him to write and all the rest write me also. Just think if you were over here alone, you would like to hear from us at home. Well, mother I will have to close for this time, so be sure and answer soon and don't worry about me for I am alright. Just one place under my arm and about twelve places on my back. Tell father to write to his son once in awhile I would love to see all the folks at home. So, good bye.

Your loving son,

Clarence Rickels.

Red Cross To Help Flu Infected Districts

Cities and towns needing nurses and hospital supplies to care for influenza cases among civilians must make their needs known through their local health officer and local Red Cross Chapter and not apply direct to Red Cross division headquarters.

The same procedure holds good for military schools established in colleges which may be stricken with the epidemic.

This statement was issued at Lake Division headquarters this afternoon as a result of the confusion arising among civilian population and student soldiers needing nursing care and supplies.

If local Red Cross resources and public health resources are not adequate, local health officers can get help from Division Red Cross headquarters if their state boards of health request it.

All chapters have been provided with full instructions as to procedure, relationship with local boards of health and with the division headquarters. Meanwhile the Lake Division is still sending nurses and hospital supplies direct to military camps almost as quickly as requisitions are received. New requisitions are on hand from Camp Taylor, Sherman and Buell.

All graduates and practical nurses are again urged to communicate with their nearest Red Cross chapter for assignment.

Chapters have received full instructions how to carry out a survey of their local nursing resources and all chapters are repeatedly being urged not to go out on any influenza assignments without some authorization from the Red Cross. This is to enable the Red Cross to keep a constant inventory of the number and kind of nurses available. With out this inventory, according to the statement from division headquarters, confusion will result.

Today's instructions to Red Cross chapters from James L. Fieser, chairman of the division Committee on Influenza, suggest that local chapters organize groups of lay women to augment the professional nursing forces if necessary. The instructions, however, point out that the organization of such women should include only those who are, through some previous training or experience, qualified for membership in this important auxiliary force.

Labor Needed to Save Camp Knox for State

Emergency Causes Summary
Notice From Authorities At Washington.

DRAFT MAY COME IF VOLUNTEERS FAIL

State Wide Calls Sent Out To Lend Aid For Speeding Up Work.

State wide calls have gone out to save Camp Henry Knox at Stithon for Kentucky. The authorities at Washington have served notice on Kentucky that if they cannot produce the necessary laborers to complete the work at Stithon before cold weather sets in the permanent artillery camp, representing an investment of probably $20,000,000, will be withdrawn from the state entirely.

Immediately upon receipt of these advices the state officials got busy and are sending out calls to all individuals and business organizations, pointing out the emergency and frankly declaring that if Kentucky carpenters and laborers do not volunteer for the work, a forcible draft must be made effective at once on non-essential industries.

ULTIMATUM ISSUED!

Work at Camp Knox has dragged for lack of men and winter time is now approaching with thousands of the soldiers still in tents at Camp Taylor and West Point. The ultimatum is that barracks to hold not less than 30,000 men and stables for 15,000 animals must be completed by December 1. It is the belief of the Kentucky authorities that even more is possible than erect workmen can be secured to erect buildings that will accommodate possibly 50,000 men with stable accommodation for 30,000 animals. This is the present patriotic determination.

Pratt Dale, Federal Director of the United States Employment Service immediately issued a public notice, sent broadcast throughout Kentucky, telling just what the state was up against.

He called a meeting of various interests, including John Griffiths & Son Company, builders of the Camp for the government, Major W. H. Radcliff, constructing quartermaster in charge, and organized an intensive campaign that is destined to reach every city and hamlet of Kentucky.

AUTHORITY FOR DRAFT.

"Every man and every business organization," said Mr. Dale "must realize that this is an emergency that calls for immediate action. Under the authority given us from Washington if the men in sufficient numbers do not volunteer their services we must draft them from the non-essential industries. It is up to the employers of laborers throughout Kentucky immediately to displace men in their employment with women and recommend their employees to enter the service at Camp Knox."

Major W. H. Radcliff, constructing quartermaster at Camp Knox, has also appealed to the people of Kentucky to volunteer for service. "Every nail you drive," says Major Radcliff in a ringing message to workmen, "every brick you lay, every bit of real work done, will add to the growing loads around the Kaiser's neck. The war won't wait."

Lean, lithe, tanned, swinging boys. The whites of their eyes are clear, their skins glow. Lord, the fresh life of them!

On, on, through aisles of plane trees. Sometimes a boy turns his head westward. What's he thinking of as he nears the Hell on earth? Folks back home. He isn't thinking in terms of Liberty Bonds. He's just sort of wondering if we're going to stick behind him.

BEFORE God, we are, boys! And the only way we can stick is to buy bonds. You are giving your life. What the devil do we care about our dollars? You'll get your coffee and slum if we have to pawn the shirts off our backs. That's the way we feel today. Never you doubt it.

Six billion dollars! Will we give it! Wait and see!
